I believe the case filed against Microsoft was initiated by competitors who are locked in a fierce competitive industry which needs far less federal meddling. I also believe this act precipitated the tech meltdown. I suggest less interference from government on all levels. I also want the government to downsize. Comment: All industry has benefitted by applying computer technology except the government which indeed did add computers but it continues to grow so fast that it s size rivals private industry. If this case is dropped or settled promptly it could be the catalyst to haul the country out of the recession.
